FIVE PERSONS INJURED WHEN JITNEY BUS GOES OVER BANK

Large Car From Monessen
Strikes Smaller One,
With Serious Results

STORY OF ACCIDENT TOLD

Alleged That Driver of Large Car
Attempted to Pass Jitney Bus
While Calling to Driver of Latter—
Police Investigating.

Five persons were injured, one of them seriously, when a jitney bus in which they were riding was knocked over an embankment near Monessen on the new Riverside road by a large touring car Tuesday evening.

The injured:
MRS. WILLIAM JOHNS, of Lynn's Grove, breast bone fractured, back lacerated, cuts and bruises on the body and probable internal injuries. Condition serious; taken to the private hospital of Dr. M. J. Cramer, Monessen.

NICK PONPOKIS, of Donora left arm cut and body bruised. Taken home.

SCOTT KNAPP, of Grove City, artery in right leg torn; sides injured, body cuts. Taken to the hospital.

JAMES BOWELL, aged 27, of Belle Vernon, cut by flying glass, body bruised. Taken home.

FRED BREWER, aged 21 of Wickhaven, cut and bruised. Able to go home.

Brewer was the owner and driver of a small touring car used for a jitney bus, running along the Riverside road from Donora to Monessen. The other four were passengers in the bus.

About two miles north of Monessen a large touring car, said to have been driven by William Jones, aged 21, of Monessen and owned jointly by Isaac Peters and George and Charles Nahas, all of Monessen, drew alongside, going in the same direction.

Witnesses allege the driver of the larger car drew very close to the jitney when Jones tried to call to Brewer. The large car hit the front wheels of the jitney and threw the bus over a 20-foot embankment. The jitney turned over and Mrs. Johns, Ponpokis and Knapp were pinned under it.

It is alleged the large car hesitated only a moment and then continued to Monessen. The police have arranged to have a hearing this afternoon to probe into the affair.

"THE PIRATES IN THE SKY" IN PITTSBURG DISPATCH

The most thrilling and momentous novel written since Rider Haggard's "King Solomon's Mines" is "The Pirates of the Sky" a speculative tale of fiction by Stephen Gallard who writes of the possibilities of air-craft in brigandage. With a well-worked-out plot the author has shown what might ensue if outlaws were to gain control of the largest and swiftest areoplanes known to the world. The story tells where with bombs and gunery the inhabitants were terrorized and then the banks looted, etc. A pretty love story runs through an all-absorbing plot. "The Pirates of the Sky" will be

The peaches retailing in Charleroi Tuesday for 50 cents per bushel were shipped from Maryland. In that state it is asserted there are thousands of bushels more to be had and it is probable they will be made available for buyers here. In addition the local growers report good crops.

GOOD PRODUCTION AT WILSON WELL

Gas Found at Four Different Depths by Driller in Carroll Township

TWO OTHERS TO BE SUNK

Thomas Bickerton a Monongahela driller has drilled in one of the best gas wells that has ever been uncovered in this vicinity. It is located on the Wilson farm in Carroll township and is owned by the Philadelphia company. Gas was found at four different depths and is at present feeding from 1875, 1945, 2019 and 2240 feet. It is understood that there is more than 100 pound pressure and that a silver dollar thrown into the hole never reaches the bottom, but is thrown out with considerable force.

About fifteen years ago another big dividend paying well was struck within 100 yards of the present location.

Arrangements are being made at once for the beginning of two other wells to be located on the Jake Body and John Shannon farms nearby. Other leases are being signed up and it is expected that there will be much drilling activity in the next several months.

FIRST ADVERTISING CAR OF CIRCUS HERE

Barnum and Bailey Starting Work
Of Advertising Big Show to Appear
Here Wednesday, September
22—Eighty-Five Cars Carried.

The Barnum and Bailey "Greatest Show on Earth" is coming to Charleroi on Wednesday September 22 and this fact is being heralded far and wide today by a crew of 50 men who arrived here on the number one advertising car. This is just one of four advertising cars that will come here, together with several special brigades and between now and circus day more than 150 men will have taken part in the great advertising campaign that is being conducted. Gayly colored posters are beginning to adorn every available space in the city and surrounding country and a great holiday crowd may be expected.

Circus performers to the number of 480 gathered from all nations is the announcement of the Barnum and Bailey management for this year and it is claimed that every nationality in the world is represented even to a complete Chinese circus from Peking, China. The circus program is introduced by a new spectacular pageant, Lalla Bookh in which more than 1,250 people take part. This gorgeous procession cost the management a fortune to produce and in one section of the wonderful tournament are heard 300 musicians playing upon every kind of musical instrument and all in perfect harmony. There are many new trained animal acts that are entirely new to this country and among these are Mile Adgie's ten tango dancing lions, Madam Bradra's flying horses, the marvellous "war elephants," Pallenberg's wonderful bicycle riding and roller skating bears and the Barnum and Bailey seven groups of posing horses.

The equipment of this, the biggest circus in the world, is transported on 85 double length cars and when the huge tents are erected, among which is the largest ever made, they represent a regular traveling city with its own population of nearly 1,500 people. In the great menagerie are 40 elephants and 110 cages, tanks and pens, containing every known specimen of rare wild beast that can possibly live in captivity. Nearly all of these are shown in open dens in the big free street parade given on the morning of circus day.

TRADE ON P. & L. E. RAPIDLY PICKING UP

Heavy Shipments From Monongahela
Valley Over New Route to Connellsville and Cumberland Being Made.

After a slight falling off in business during July, traffic over the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad has again taken a jump forward. In June, 20,606 cars were handled in the Dickerson Run yards, east and west, while in July only 20,039 were sent out, a decrease of 567 cars. This falling off in the number of cars moved was not due to a slump in freight business but to a new system of inspecting trains going east.

Some time ago an order was issued to car and air inspectors to allow no trains to leave the yards unless they were in perfect condition. Orders were also issued that all trains from Dickerson Run to Cumberland Run to Cumberland must be handled by air brakes and not by hand, because of the 22 mile hill which must be descended before entering Cumberland yard. These orders necessitated the hiring of 26 extra men to work on air and car inspection and considerable delay to trains was caused. The inspection work is now going on with all possible dispatch, the yardmen having proven as efficient as a number of experts sent in from outside to show how the work should be done.

The Dickerson Run yards were congested last week but on Saturday the yards were cleared and everything was moving on time. Large shipments of steel cars for the Russian government were sent through.

HUNTING SEASON VIRTUALLY OPENS

Lawful to Kill Reed Birds

DOGS SHOWING ANXIETY

With the approach of fall the shaggy bird dog and the short-legged beagle are awakening from the lethargy of hot summer days and with eager eyes and wagging tails anxiously watching their masters oil up trusty firing pieces for the sportsmen are now preparing for the annual tramp through field and wood.

Hunters' licenses are issued from the office of County Treasurer S. M. Downer. All who wish to hunt must take out licenses. Resident hunters' licenses cost one dollar each. An owner of land may hunt upon his own property without a license but in all other instances, hunters must wear their license tags conspicuously displayed. Aliens are not permitted to have arms in their possession in the state of Pennsylvania.

There was a time when a poor marksman might hire a hunter to accompany him to kill the game for him. The imperfect marksman would enjoy the fun of the chase and his hired hunter would bring down the game. This insured a more pleasant return at the end of the chase. But nowadays in Pennsylvania the poor marksman has to do their own shooting and if they return home with their game bags empty they must take the jibe of their more fortunate neighbors.

NEW OUTLET IS CREATED

Connecting Link Between Fayette City and Dickerson Run Makes Possible Shipments From Coke Regions By Shortened Route.

That the New York Central will utilize the short cut of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad from the Monongahela valley to Connellsville on their projected fast train service east to Baltimore from Pittsburgh is a story that originated in Monongahela Tuesday incidental to a visit there of M. R. Hepplewhite, traveling passenger agent of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie lines. Already there has been considerable talk of so using the short cut. At present the fast trains go down the Yough valley. The scheme possibly would go to divide them up, giving the Monongahela valley some and the Youghiogheny valley some.

Mr. Hepplewhite is engaged at present in promoting the interests of the Fayette County fair at Dawson, from the passenger end. Special excursions will be run from the Monongahela valley. It is asserted that they will in a way be a test for the road in handling heavy passenger service. The connecting link from Fayette City to Dickerson Run was built particularly for freight traffic, creating a new outlet for Connellsville coke down the Monongahela valley. Heretofore it was necessary to haul the coal the other way and other material from the coke region of Fayette county down the Youghiogheny valley. By the new route the shipping distance has been reduced.

WESTMINSTER GUILD HOLDS MEETING WITH MISS NUTT

The Westminster Guild of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church met Tuesday evening in the home of Miss Genevieve Nutt, at North Charleroi. The president, Miss Elizabeth Elliott conducted devotional exercises and heard reports from committees. The program was along missionary lines and the lives of two missionaries were studied. The life of Dr. Matthew Yates, a missionary to India was presented by Miss Bessie Richey. The life of Isabel Thompson, a missionary to India, was presented by Miss Marie Whitman and Miss Grace Fleming. A reading was given by Miss Dott Kinnear. Plans were made for the society's anniversary service to be held this month. The meeting was largely attended. A lunch was served by the hostesses, Miss Genevieve Nutt and Marie Rockwell.

THE JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Reorganization of education under the junior high school plan or something similar is definitely under way, according to Prof. T. H. Briggs, whose review of secondary education has just been issued by the U. S. Bureau of Education.

The junior high school has been defined "as an organization of grades 7 and 8 or 7 to 9 to provide means for individual differences, especially by an earlier introduction of vocational work and of subjects usually taught in the high school." There are now 57 cities in the United States where junior high schools are organized in unmistakable form. Charleroi is one of the smaller municipalities leading in the movement.

"One advantage claimed for the junior high school," declares Dr. Briggs, "is that it groups children so that subjects seldom taught in the grammar grades may be introduced, thereby giving each pupil a more intelligent understanding of the work of the world, of the possibilities in the subject and in the pupil himself."

"The junior high school also makes easier the transition of pupils to the high school. That the change between the elementary and the high school should be so sharp permits no justification. To bridge this gap by earlier introduction to high school subjects and methods of teaching has greatly improved results. It is claimed."

"The junior high school has furthermore greatly decreased elimination of pupils from school. This elimination after the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades has been one of the greatest reproaches to our educational system. Any plan that promises to retain children in school beyond these grades is worthy of the most careful consideration."

The statistics given by Dr. Briggs show that a much larger per cent of students enter high school where junior high schools exist than before they were organized.

That the junior high school furnishes an opportunity for various needed reforms in instruction is the final claim of the new movement, according to Dr. Briggs. He points out that in the junior high school, a course of study based on the newer principles of psychology, sociology, and economics, various provisions for individual differences, and especially an improved method of teaching, can now be introduced.

The activity of humane society agents in causing the arrest and punishment of drivers who abuse horses is commendable, says the Washington Observer. A few more stiff lessons will make some of the brutal drivers stop and think before they proceed to vent a vicious rage against a defenseless horse. Beating a horse seldom does any good. In the case of one of the animals does not know what the beating is for. A horse is a sensitive and nervous animal and is more readily handled by kindness than by roughness.

Numerous novels, some dramas and many of the moving picture hits acquire their prestige through the imaginary story surrounding them. Some of the biggest sensations in recent months especially in motion pictures were those decidedly risqué in character. A few years ago they would not only have been protested, but absolutely prohibited.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

Some time ago a business man had occasion to see a theatrical manager and on being admitted to the stage just at the conclusion of the play he noted that the leading lady seemed to be in a state of wild excitement.

"Your beautiful star seems to be somewhat disturbed," said the business man. "What seems to be the trouble?"

"She is disturbed," answered the manager. "She got only nine bouquets over the footlights tonight."

"Gee whizz!" was the amazed rejoinder of the other. "Weren't nine enough?"

"No," was the calm response of the manager. "She paid for ten."

An Ohio farmer wrote that he owned nine cows and asked his congressman to send him a government exterminator for flies.

He got this reply: "Sorry, but I, too, am in quest of the same thing. I have no cows but I have a bald head."

"That pest who lives next door to me has a habit of starting up his lawn mower at 6 o'clock in the morning."

"Spoils your beauty, sleep eh?"

"Not only that, but my daughter complains that she can't practice her music lesson with all that racket going on."

HUNTING SEASON

Heavy penalties are prescribed for those who shall kill game for hire or wages, directly or indirectly, both employer and employee being subject to large fines. Hunting on Sunday is forbidden and game birds cannot lawfully be killed from one hour after sun down until one hour before sunrise.

Hunting season opens today, when it becomes lawful to kill road birds, snipe, jack or wilson. The number that may be killed by any one person is unlimited. Reed birds may be used during the months of September and October. The open season for snipe, jack or wilson extends from September 1 to January 1. During this season Black-breasted and Golden Plover, Jack, Snipe and Yellow Legs may be killed from September 1 to December 16.

The open season for rabbits and deer game does not open until October 15. This is considered the best opening of the hunting season.

WRONG NUMBER 33

A Messenger's Mistake Made a Lasting Change in the Life of Nurse Ewing.

By LESLIE COOMBS.

Copyright, 1915, by The Cincinnati Enquirer

Nurse Sylvia Ewing was resting in her room as Mrs. Bill's boarding house sorting over the basket of freshly laundered uniforms, aprons and caps. She was packing a suitcase ready for any emergency call and she had just completed her task and shut away the extra garments in her bureau drawers when there came a tap at the door.

"Come in," said Sylvia.

It was Martha, the maid.

"Please, Miss Ewing, there's a man downstairs says he's come for you to go out to Windberry—a lady has been taken suddenly. He's got a car down at the door."

She handed Sylvia a card and went away.

Sylvia glanced at it. It bore the name of Richard Waring and scribbled underneath in pencil were a few words: "My mother has been suddenly stricken. Can you come at once? Adolph will bring you in the car."

Sylvia did not know Richard Waring—she had never heard of him, but she supposed it was one of Doctor Dorman's cases. She was surprised that the call had not come through the customary channel, the doctor's office.

But there was no time for speculation. A handsome limousine waited at the curb, and Sylvia donned her white uniform, slipped on a topcoat, snatched up her suitcase and, with a hurried word to Mrs. Bill, went out and was assisted into the car by a trim looking chauffeur. In another moment they were spinning along the fine road toward Windberry, a charming suburb.

She was not prepared for the imposing house—a long, rambling pile of stone broken into many gables and with a score of red tiled chimneys.

The footman was waiting in the lower hall. He opened a door and announced—"Miss Young!"

A man came forward to meet her. There was blank surprise in his keen, clear face, but he quickly masked it and held out his hand.

"I am very glad to see you, Miss—er—Young?"

"Ewing," corrected Sylvia. "I received your card, Mr. Waring."

She gave him the card Adolph had presented and he thrust it into his pocket.

"I suppose it is one of Doctor Dorman's cases?"

"Ah—no; Doctor Laidlaw is our physician. Will you come to my mother's room now, Miss Ewing?"

Mrs. Waring had suffered a slight stroke of paralysis; her speech was not affected, but one arm and hand were numb and helpless.

She opened her eyes when Sylvia came to her bedside, and her eyes widened and the same look of surprise that the nurse had noted in the son's gaze was here.

"This is Miss Ewing, mother," said Waring. "She has come to take care of you. The doctor has just telephoned that he is on the way to pay you another visit." He stooped over and kissed the pale, lined face on the pillow and tipped out of the room.

The maid who had been sitting with her mistress gave the nurse the paper with the doctor's directions and left Sylvia alone with her patient.

Mrs. Waring's dark eyes followed the graceful movements of the new nurse. One could read disappointment in her cold glance, and some bewilderment. At last she spoke: "Why did you come?"

Sylvia turned a surprised face to her.

"Because I was sent for—to take care of you," she added, with her best smile.

"You won't do," said the patient coldly.

"I'm sorry you don't like me," faltered Sylvia, taken aback.

"I like you well enough—but you're too pretty!"

Sylvia's hands flew up to her hot cheeks. Her eyes flashed and then she remembered that perhaps her patient was not entirely responsible for her utterances.

So she made no answer, but went about her duties, and when Doctor Laidlaw arrived he found the sick woman reposing comfortably.

Sylvia had met him once or twice in the course of her hospital practice and she knew him for a very able physician. He greeted her pleasantly and she thought she detected a gleam of amusement in his twinkling glance.

Sylvia followed him to the door as he was going. She was perplexed. She related what the sick woman had said to her, blushing as she repeated the doubtful compliment. "It will disturb her to have me here," she added.

"I hardly think so—we'll try it out, anyway," he said cheerfully as he went downstairs.

As the days passed by Mrs. Waring lost her first animosity toward her nurse. But her eyes continued to follow Sylvia around the room.

"Why does she care whether I am pretty or not?" the girl asked herself, impatiently, "as long as I do my duty?"

It was Waring himself who enlightened Sylvia.

One April morning Mrs. Waring, sitting in a chair by the sunny window, watched the girl as she came in and out the room, her right

GERM OF SMALLPOX RIGHTS OF WORKER

Doctor Greeley Claims to Have Isolated Microbe.

Believes They Multiply in Mucous
Membrane of Nose at Beginning of Disease and Thence Penetrate
Blood Vessels.

Dr. Horace Greeley of Brooklyn reports to the Medical Record that he has discovered the long-sought microbe of smallpox. He found "an apparently identical organism" from the "vesicles of twenty-five cases of successful vaccination, from a like number of cases of undoubted chickenpox, and from five cases of recognized and undoubted smallpox."

From Doctor Greeley's technical description of this new microbe it may be gathered that it is spherical and from 0.3 to 0.6 microns (of 0.000117 to 0.000234 inch) in diameter. It is in the form of multiplying spores, which just before division assume the shape of a figure 8, with a nucleus in each half. These develop into branching masses with spores at the end of the branches.

Doctor Greeley has grown them in cultures. He believes they multiply on the mucous membranes of the nose at the beginning of the disease, and the spores when shed penetrate the blood vessels and are wafted to all parts of the body, "landing in the skin capillaries, where conditions of lower temperature and more light, perhaps, favor further proliferation. In this connection we should remember how the eruption favors the face and hands."

Doctor Greeley concludes that vaccinia and variola are identical, the difference being that "vaccination produces a local and at most a lymphatic infection, usually stopped at the nearest chain of glands, and represents the inoculation of an organism directly derived from a different species of animal, and therefore probably of low relative virulence, while smallpox is undoubtedly contracted through the respiratory tract and is due to one derived directly from an animal of like species which, as shown, through spore formation, passes into the blood and is thrown to all corners."

ARE LOADED WITH THERMIT

Incendiary Bombs Differ From the Ordinary Missile in Character of Their Destructive Power.

Incendiary bombs differ from ordinary explosive bombs in that they are intended not to scatter fragments over a wide area, but to produce sudden and intense heat at a given point, thus starting a fierce conflagration.

W. A. Tilden describes in Nature one of these bombs, a picture of which is reproduced here. His description is as follows:

The bomb, as a rule, is conical, of ten-inch diameter at the base, corded round, and has a metal handle at the apex (see cut). The base is a flat cup onto which a pierced metal funnel is fitted, having the ignition device and handle fitted at the top. The funnel is generally filled with thermit, which upon ignition generates intense heat, and by the time of the concussion has taken the form of molten metal of the extraordinary high temperature of over five thousand degrees Fahrenheit. The molten metal is spread by the concussion. Outside the funnel is a padding of a highly inflammable or resinous material bound on with an inflammable form of rope. The resinous material creates a pungent smoke.

There is generally some melted white phosphorus in the bottom of the cap, which develops nauseous fumes. In some cases celluloid chip-pings are added and occasionally a small quantity of petrol.

Peculiar Effect of War.

Capt. Eugene Bourassa, a military officer in Montreal, who in private life controls a clothing store, states that the war has caused among his patrons an average expansion of chest measure from 36 to 40 inches. This is true not only of those in active service, but of all the citizens. He explains it on the ground that all the men are mentally and physically preparing for service now or in the future.

Unsentimental.

"Do you understand the language of flowers?" said the sentimental youth. "No," replied Miss Cayenne. "I don't know that I should care to have my conversation regulated by the kind of vegetation that happened to be in season."

Review of Court Decisions Affecting Labor Issued.

Workmen's Compensation Laws Form
Largest Group of Cases—Railroad
Employment in Different Phases
Another Important Class.

The United States bureau of labor statistics has just issued its annual review of court decisions affecting labor as its Bulletin No. 169. Approximately 265 decisions are summarized, dealing with the application and construction of the laws, or with the application of the principles of the common law to the rights and relations of the worker.

Decisions of outstanding importance, which are reviewed in this bulletin include the final opinions of the appellate and Supreme courts of the United States in the famous Danbury Hatters' case, holding members of unions personally liable for damage from boycotts; the dissolution of the famous injunction in the case of John Mitchell against the Hitchman Coal and Coke company of West Virginia; and holding labor unions legal; and the Supreme court's opinion in the Copeage case, overthrowing the law of Kansas, which undertook to protect workmen in their membership in labor organizations. In the last named case the dissenting opinion, which defended the constitutionality of the act, is also given.

The largest group of cases on a single subject is that relating to the new form of legislation known as workmen's compensation laws. The decisions on this subject range from questions of constitutionality, decided adversely in the case of the Kentucky statute and favorably in other state courts, to the determination of definitions or of single points of dispute in considering occupational diseases, for instance, the Massachusetts courts hold lead-poisoning to be within the state act providing for compensation for "personal injuries arising out of and in the course of employment," while the Michigan courts, under the provisions of a state law similarly expressed, hold that a case of lead poisoning is not entitled to compensation. An optic neuritis, induced by inhaling poisonous gases, was also compensated in Massachusetts, while in New Jersey the court disallowed a claim on account of eczema said to be caused by acids used in a bleachery. Other decisions relate to the mode of computing benefits, the definition of the term "casual employment," what constitutes dependency, wilful act, incapacity, etc.

Another important group of decisions in a related field is of those determining the application of the federal liability statute to different classes of railroad employments. Several cases are found which turn on the nature of the employment of the injured person, i. e., whether in interstate commerce or not. The courts are not uniform in their construction of this statute, but among the employments found to be within the act were those of a blacksmith repairing cars used in interstate commerce, a telegraph lineman engaged in repair work, workmen installing block signal systems, a carpenter building an addition to a freight shed, a laborer carrying coal to heat a shop in which interstate cars were being repaired, etc. Employments which according to the decisions were excluded were workmen constructing cut-offs for shortening interstate trackage, a hostler killed by the explosion of the boiler of a locomotive whose last run was interstate, and a switch engine fireman who was at the moment handling only interstate cars, though his work regularly involved the handling of both classes of commerce interchangeably.

Other classes of federal laws that received considerable attention in the court decisions are those limiting the hours of service of railroad employees, and requiring the supply and maintenance of safety appliances. Other interesting cases are one that grew out of the textile workers' strike in Massachusetts, in which the accountability of collectors of a fund intended for the relief of strikers' families was affirmed; one connected with the bridge workers' campaign against nonunion employers, involving the transportation of explosives in interstate trains; a murder trial growing out of the incitement of a strike leader urging his followers to prevent arrests in the hop pickers' strike in California; and a question of the validity of a sentence of a military court during the disturbances among the miners of Silver Bow county, Montana.

The power of an employers' association to enforce its rules is maintained in a case in which such an association was held by the court to be entitled to recover from one of its members the sum of $5,000 as damages for his defection in a struggle against closed shop contracts. In connection with this may be mentioned a case deciding the illegality of a combination in restraint of trade undertaken and carried on by an association of retail lumber dealers by blacklisting wholesale dealers who sold directly to the consumer.

The minimum wage law of Oregon is noted in this bulletin as the first law of this class to receive judicial consideration, being upheld by the supreme court of that state. From this decision an appeal has since been taken.

TESTED AND PROVEN

There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well-Earned Reputation.

For months Charleroi readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. What other remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit?

Mrs. Louis Velletty, 205 Prospect avenue, Charleroi, says: "I had been troubled for years with dropsical swellings in my feet and ankles and I found it hard to get around. I also had a dull, heavy pain in the small of my back and I couldn't do my housework. I seemed to be worse in the morning and I often got so sore that I couldn't bend. Rheumatic pains darted throughout my body and I felt tired all the time. I doctored, but got no relief and when I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply at Piper Bros. Drug Store. Two boxes relieved me. I now take Doan's Kidney Pills off and on when I am not feeling well and they never fail to help me."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Velletty had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

PITTSBURGH EXPOSITION OPENS AT HISTORIC POINT THIS SEASON ON SEPTEMBER FIRST

Sousa and His Band, Russian Symphony Orchestra and Other Musical Features—Latest Appliances in Machinery

Under unusual promising conditions the twenty-seventh annual season of the Western Pennsylvania Exposition society at the Point in Pittsburgh will open on September 1 for a shorter but more interesting and animated season which will end on October 16. The season's plan calls for four of the greatest musical organizations in the world to provide the series of concerts in Music Hall, and the collection of educational and entertaining exhibits will exceed former years, with greater diversion in character and lighter type artistically than ever before. The United States government display this season is to include representative showings from the department of the treasury, the department of agriculture, the department of the navy and the bureau of printing and engraving. The United States mint will be represented by a coin machine usually a ticket for silver half dollars, but at the Exposition a government operator will turn out counter bronze medals on it with Exposition and Pennsylvania designs on the faces, and which will be sold at the bare cost of making.

Free lectures will be given by the government display, and will cover the farm and orchard development work and will interest many. The exposition display will be equal to any ever seen in the West, more & Ohio railroad exhibits will be novel and wonderful, interesting as a full collection of history of transportation from the first pages and will have for the first time the various forms of transportation used in the Orient and the South, even to Egypt and Turkey, centuries ago. It will contain the earliest, some of the latest types as well.

There are some wonderful inventions of recent date especially in connection with railroad equipment, including the very latest form of pneumatic air hose coupling which has been used for many years and now has been improved. There is a solution to one of the greatest safety problems of the railroad, an increase in the safety of employees coupling cars and trains together. The exhibition will begin with the opening of the splendid symphonic orchestra made up of fifty leading artists of Philadelphia. The concerts by this organization are for two weeks' duration. Then will follow the great Sousa band concerts and then the Russian Symphony orchestra with Modest Altschuler in charge and with soloists and also the now famous "color organ," which will be seen for the first time in any city outside of New York. This color organ gives visual coloring to musical renditions. The closing programs will be by Creators and his matchless concert band. In every case, the musical organizations coming to the Point buildings this year will have with them vocal soloists, a new feature for many of them. The first of these will be with the Philadelphia organization and one of these will be Miss Gertrude Hutcheson, soprano soloist who was recently with the Boston Opera company.

Most important of the more recent developments of the exposition is the transportation that is probably a railroad will run special excursions to the Point during this season for a distance of at least seventy-five miles from the city. This decision will create a fresh and more intense interest in the season and bring thousands to the Point that have been coming for some time. The Point is the most ancient community in western Pennsylvania, the foundation of it as a city has been a changing one many changes the past years and old visitors will recognize the changes. Success have been gained in the past years and new developments have been made. The Point is now a more important and more developed place than ever before.

The Point buildings are now in course of preparation for the big show. They are being redecorated and painted and in the main building a complete new concrete floor has been laid covering the entire structure. Lightening designs and illumination are to be new and more powerful. There will be the moving picture shows and displays of model homes and means and methods for their designing and beautifying under all conditions. Home and domestic exhibits in fact will be one of the leading features of the exhibition, and the big show.

Beaver Bullet Put in Shape for Labor Day Events—Large Crowd Looked For Next Monday at Belle Vernon.

The Beaver Bullet, the odd-looking blue racing car that went through the fence at the Belle Vernon races last Friday received is full complement of wheels today and will soon be ready to go on the track again. The bent front and rear axle has been straightened and several other minor injuries to the frame have been repaired so that the car is practically ready for the Labor day races at the Belle Vernon track.

The Simplex is in good running shape and is looked upon as a dangerous entry and it will likely finish in a good part of the money.

A. D. Spencer the local garage man who has his Buick Wildcat entered is making some changes to the car which he believes will put him out of the dust next Monday.

Tom Rose, who has his powerful Mercedes quartered at Spencers garage is busy tuning up the big racer. Rose has been through some fast events in different parts of the country with his foreign car and has become known as Half-Mile Louie.

From all indications the races Labor day will draw the largest crowd ever assembled on the Belle Vernon track. Seven events make up the program and ten cars have been entered and will be driven by professional drivers.
